

I never thought paying for radio would be worth it. I WAS WRONG. XM has the music and programming I want. I listen to the radio 3 hours a day, and XM 3-5 hours a day. I get to listen to what I want when I want whether it's radio or satellite. This is the way it should be in America. To regulate it at this early stage would be like regulating Cable TV in the 70's or the Internet in the 90's. Let XM do what they are doing. Tell NAB that if they want to stop XM, that their members should put out a better product.

I live in Colorado, and my only complaint is I can't get weather and radio here. PLEASE DON'T MESS WITH XM!
